

Your college squash career will end.

Your place in squash doesn't have to.

What comes after college squash?

Maybe you keep playing. Maybe you coach. Teach a lesson. Become a referee. Volunteer. Work at a club. Mentor a young player. Help run an event. Or discover another way of staying involved that you haven't even considered yet.

That's what Sprout is about.

Squash has already been a big part of your life. We want to help you discover all the ways it can remain part of whatever comes next.

*Same
Game.
Bigger Possibilities.*

We're not finished building it.

That's where you come in.

This first group isn't just being invited to participate in Sprout. You're being invited to help shape it.

What should we teach? Who should you meet? What would actually be useful? What would make you want to stay connected to squash after college?

Stay in the Game.

DISCOVER ALL THE WAYS YOU CAN.

There's more than one way to stay in the game.

Whether you want to compete, give back, explore new opportunities, or simply stay connected, Sprout can help you explore what's possible.

Play

COMPETITION DOESN'T HAVE TO STOP WITH COLLEGE.

Keep competing, stay active, and discover places to play long after college.

Coach

SHARE WHAT YOU KNOW.

Learn how to teach the game—from a first lesson to helping experienced players improve.

Referee

A DIFFERENT KIND OF IMPACT.

See the game from a new perspective, deepen your knowledge, and learn what it takes to make the call.

Volunteer

MAKE A DIFFERENCE OFF THE COURT.

Give back through programs that introduce the game to new players.

Connect

KEEP THE COMMUNITY STRONG.

Build relationships and stay connected to the squash world wherever life takes you.

Work in Squash

REAL OPPORTUNITIES. REAL IMPACT.

Teaching pro. Club management. Administration. Squash offers careers—and side jobs—you may never have considered.

You don't have to know which of these is for you.

That's the point.

Sprout is a chance to explore the possibilities, learn from people already doing them, and try things yourself—without having to choose a path or decide what comes next.

You help decide what happens next.

The first Sprout group will help shape the program from the very beginning.

OCTOBER 28

Meet the first Sprout group.

A virtual introductory conversation—not a lecture. We'll share our ideas, hear from you, and talk about what would make Sprout valuable.

What would you want to learn?

DECEMBER

You help shape the first session.

We'll explore choices—coaching, refereeing, careers in squash, club opportunities, or something new. You'll help decide.

AFTER THE SEASON

We get together.

In person. Hands-on. We'll cover your hotel and meals. Real conversations. Practical experience. A chance to explore what's next.

SOME OF THE QUESTIONS WE MIGHT EXPLORE TOGETHER:

How do you give a great private lesson?

A great group lesson?

Could squash be a side job? A career? Both?

How do I volunteer with an SEA?

How do you teach someone who's never picked up a racquet?

How do I get involved if I move to a new city?

What does it take to run an event?

How do you referee with confidence?

This first year will never happen again.

Future participants will join an established Sprout program. You get to help build it.
